COL. ROOSEVELT ON WAR POLICY

Advocates Universal Military Service and Training and Prompt Steps Toward Preparedness.

STOP TALKING AND ACT

Supine Inaction and Failure to Perform Duty Not Actuated by Loftiest Ideals.

Detroit, Mich., May 19.—Hundreds of school children waving American flags were among the throng which greeted Theodore Roosevelt at the railway station today when he arrived here to be the guest of honor at the American day celebration.

Before Colonel Roosevelt was driven to the Detroit opera house, at the head of an automobile parade he made a short address to the Boy Scouts, who were lined up in front of the station. He told them he believed in their organization because it taught them to fight for the truth and "not to be molluscoides."

After luncheon at the D. A. C., Colonel Roosevelt spent nearly two hours in privacy before he went to a local opera house to deliver an address on "Americanism and Preparedness for Peace."

This afternoon Colonel Roosevelt was to make a short address to a mass meeting in Grand Circus park in the heart of the business district. Before he returns to New York late this afternoon he is to make an automobile tour of the city. It was announced that he expects to spend a few moments visiting Henry Ford at the latter's automobile factory.

Detroit, Mich., May 19.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in an address here today, reiterated his opposition to "all kinds of hyphenated Americanism," advocated universal military service based on universal training, and declared that we must abolish "pork barrel" methods in our national defense, stop talking and get down to the actual business of thorough preparedness if we are to make this nation as strong as are its convictions in reference to right and wrong.

Colonel Roosevelt prefaced his speech by announcing that he had come here to Michigan because in the primary for the selection of delegates to the Republican national convention, Mr. Ford was victorious and following on his victory here, he showed a marked popular strength in Nebraska and Pennsylvania. The effect of this showing has been immediately visible upon many of the politicians within and without congress.

Roasts Representatives in Washington
"We, through our representatives at Washington," said Colonel Roosevelt, "have absolutely refused in the smallest degree to prepare during these twenty-two months of world cataclysm. We have refused to learn the smallest part of the lesson being written in Europe. We have endeavored to deceive ourselves by announcing that in this policy of supine inaction and of failure to perform duty we are actuated by the loftiest motives. I doubt whether we have really deceived ourselves and most certainly we have not deceived others."

"There is no use in saying that we will fit ourselves to defend ourselves a little, but not much. Such a position is equivalent to announcing that, if necessary, we shall not fight, but shall only hit softly. The only right principle is to prepare thoroughly or not at all. The only right principle is to avoid hitting, if it is possible to do so, but never under any circumstances to hit softly. To go to war a little, but not much, is the one absolutely certain way to ensure disaster."

No Step for Preparedness.
Colonel Roosevelt declared that the Wilson administration "has taken no step for preparedness, and has done nothing efficient to sustain our national rights."

"We must make this nation as strong as are its convictions in reference to right and wrong," declared Colonel Roosevelt. "It little matters what our ideals may be and what achievements we may hope for, if these ideals and achievements cannot be reduced to the ground of a considerable part of the strength of Mr. Ford in the primaries, and of the strength of the advocates of half-preparedness at Washington, comes from the fact that no real alternative of policy is offered with sincerity and fearlessness."

In urging "universal military service based on universal training," Colonel Roosevelt said he believed in it because it would be not only of incalculable benefit to the nation in the event of war, but of incalculable benefit to the individuals undergoing it, and therefore to the nation, as regards the work of peace."

German Advocate War With U. S.
Colonel Roosevelt asserted that "the extreme naval party in Germany has recently advocated war with the United States on the ground that, in the end, as the result of such a war, we would have to pay all the expenditures of the Germanic powers and their allies."

"These enormous sums would be raised by taxation on all our citizens," he said; "those of German descent would pay as heavily as those of any other descent; and all would share equally the shame and dishonor. A foreign foe is the foe of all of us alike. If in this land the citizens of one national origin successfully set the fashion of influencing this nation to its own detriment in the interest of the country from which they originally came, sooner or later it is absolutely certain that the citizens of some other national origin will repeat the experiment; and this country will be left degraded and helpless among the nations. If such an event befall us, the bitter bread of humiliation will be eaten by all those who dwell in this land, no matter what their creed, no matter what their national origin. It will be eaten by your children and grandchildren and great-grandchildren just as much as by mine."

"Americanism is a matter of the spirit, not of birthplace or descent. Among the best Americans I have known are, and have been, men born in, or men whose fathers were born in, Germany, Ireland, the Scandinavian kingdoms, and other European countries. They stand on an exact level with the other Americans, whose ancestors were here in Colonial times. We are all part of the same people."

NEW TREATIES ARE BEING INVESTIGATED

Berlin, May 19, by Wireless to Sayville.—The Overseas News Agency says that the following statement has been issued by the Press Bureau of the Russian foreign office:

"The commercial treaties arranged by Rumania with the Central powers, which opens to the Central powers the Rumanian market for the most necessary products, go beyond the bounds of commercial agreements. According to leading Russian circles these treaties have great political importance, notwithstanding the affirmations of the Rumanian government that the treaties signify no change in political tendency. Therefore the Russian government has taken measures to ascertain the circumstances which gave rise to the conclusion of the treaties."

TAFT AND BRYAN DISAPPOINTED

Lake Mohonk Conference Committee Confines Itself to Cautious Words and Takes Decided Action.

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., May 19.—The resolutions committee for the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration today showed its appreciation of the unsettled condition of international affairs by presenting a platform which avoided any radical recommendations and confined itself to carefully worded approval of the general principle of arbitration. The platform proved a disappointing members of the League to Enforce Peace, headed by former President William H. Taft, residing officer of the conference. But it also offered no encouragement to the opponents of enforced peace, led by William J. Bryan. The platform follows:

"The world conditions of the past two years have confirmed the belief, often expressed in these conferences, that arbitral and judicial methods should and must increasingly prevail in settling international disputes. "During the twentieth century the permanent court at The Hague has acted upon cases involving questions relating to Europe, Asia, Africa, the islands of the Pacific and the three Americas. These questions involved financial and territorial claims and such fundamental matters as the right to fly the national flag and to exercise jurisdiction over national military forces."

"The tendency of this court at The Hague to become in reality permanent is evident from the fact that there are eight judges who have sat in three or more of the fifteen cases and one judge has sat in seven of the fifteen cases."

"The conference desires again to affirm its belief in the desirability of such legislation by congress as will confer upon the courts of the United States jurisdiction over all cases arising under treaty provisions or affecting the rights of aliens."

BORDER RAIDERS TO PAY PENALTY

Two Young Mexicans Found Guilty of Murder of A. L. Austin and Son Charles in Sebastian Raid.

Brownsville, Tex., May 10.—The first legal executions in payment of the penalty for American lives lost in border raids by Mexican bandits last summer and fall, were to take place here today with the hanging of Melquades Chapa and Jose Buenrostro, aged 23 and 25 respectively, found guilty of murder in connection with the death of A. L. Austin and his son Charles, following a raid on Sebastian, Cameron county, August 8, 1915.

The condemned men did not take the cases to the court of criminal appeals. Governor Ferguson at Austin last night said he would not interfere with the hangings.

Austin and his son were captured by the raiders, carried a short dis-

CAVALRY SCOUTS STILL VALUABLE

Men Fight as Cavalry or as Infantry and Keep Mounts Serviceable in Spite of Scanty Fodder.

THOROUGH TRAINING

Use of Aeroplanes Does Not Lessen Military Value of Cavalrymen in Reconnaissance.

Field Headquarters, May 11, by motor truck to Columbus, N. M., May 19.—One phase of the Villa chase noted by army officers has been that the value of cavalry for scouting and all around fighting has not at all decreased.

Notwithstanding the use of aeroplanes for scouting, the cavalry reconnaissance lost none of its military value. Four sets of conditions developed, under which the aeroplanes could not scout in fog, darkness in rain and in cloudy weather. The cavalry did its most efficient scouting in darkness, or under cover of rain clouds. Every important fight with bandits was accomplished under cover of night, which made surprise attacks possible.

Few persons, even those with the expedition, realized that the remarkable work of the auto trucks in maintaining the supply line was done largely as an auxiliary for cavalry operations. The daily ration for one soldier averages two pounds, whereas the daily ration for a horse is 11 pounds, so that the trucks were carrying a heavy proportion of their loads for the cavalry horses.

For several weeks most of the cavalry campaigned without truck rations, either for man or horse, but this work brought out another distinctive value of thoroughly trained cavalry. This was the cavalryman's individual skill as a horseman, which enabled the men to keep their mounts alive and serviceable, not only on scanty fodder but on no feed at all. In all their battles, the cavalrymen fought as infantry, that is dismounted, and with rifles or pistols. The difference between them and mounted infantry lay in the years of careful training which enabled them to keep the horses going under conditions so trying, that probably nine-tenths of the animals would have perished under the handling of any one except an expert horseman. It was this training which upset the wise predictions on the border that the big American cavalry horse would not stand up under hard mountain chases. For more than a month over distances aggregating about a thousand miles, the American cavalryman kept the same mounts going, against an enemy which, meanwhile, rode his own horses to death and seized fresh horses when the Americans pressed too closely.

One change in cavalry armament has been discussed during the expedition namely the abandonment of the sabres. Although enthusiastic cavalry officers in Mexico claim that the usefulness of the sabre, a traditional weapon of American cavalry, "is still open to discussion," this weapon usually has been left behind on Villa chases.

Field Headquarters, May 12, via army motor truck to Columbus, N. M., May 19.—A package arrived here by mail today addressed: "For deserving soldiers of the punitive expedition."

The label on the box stated that the contents came from ladies of Fort Worth, Texas. Three boxes of candy comprised the entire contents. The soldiers were delighted to receive the candy, which has been very scarce here, but there were several thousand men available under the designation of "deserving soldiers." An old sergeant solved the riddle of how to disburse the candy, saying: "We will do it by parable, like the loaves and the fishes. We ten will eat the candy, and then tell the parable to the other fellows."

A GERMAN DEFENSE

"Prisoner at the bar, do you plead guilty or not guilty of this murder?" "Not guilty, Judge. I can prove an alibi. I was engaged in killing another man at the time and he wasn't the same man the indictment says I killed, as I can prove by this picture of him, which I drew myself from memory."—Buffalo Express.
